NEW JOB OPENINGS

   Position: Assistant Professorship in Science and Technology Policy.
   Description: The Program on Science, Technology and Society is seeking a scholar actively involved in research on the social and political bases for the development of policies for science and technology, or on the impact of science and technology on public policy. Responsibilities will include the development of new courses in these areas and participation in research, including the training of graduate students. Applicants should have a Ph.D. in political science or a related field. The appointment will be for a three-year term beginning September 1978. Applications should include: (1) A description of teaching interests and an account of research interests, including specification of a potential research project. (2) A complete curriculum vitae including a summary of the doctoral dissertation and a list of courses taught. Manuscripts and offprints may be included. (3) Three letters of reference.
   Contact: Lloyd Carter, Manager, Program on Science, Technology and Society.

2. Harvard University, Cambridge, Massachusetts 02138.
   Position: Three-year non-renewable Lecturer.
   Description: Primary responsibility is for small-group teaching and individual student direction in the history of science undergraduate Tutorial Program. In addition, a chance to teach one or two independent courses each year. Department will consider any field of interest within the history of science, medicine, or technology. Beginning salary $14,000.
   Qualifications: Candidate should have completed Ph.D. by September 1, 1978.
   Effective date of appointment: July 1, 1978.
   Note: Harvard University is an Affirmative Action/Equal Opportunity Employer.
   Contact: Application, dossier, including letters of reference, and appropriate written/published material should be sent to Professor Everett Mendelsohn, Chairperson, Department of the History of Science, Science Center 235. Professor A. I. Sabra will be at the Dallas HSS meeting and will be glad to interview candidates.

   Position: Research Assistant, Joseph Henry Papers.
   Description: Individual needed to aid in the editing and publishing of Henry manuscripts. Responsibilities include research in nineteenth-century American history and history of science and technology in both published and manuscript sources. Also the editing of documents. B. A. in American history necessary and some graduate work preferred. Salary $12,336 (12-months), with possibilities for advancement. Candidate must be available by July 31, 1978. The Smithsonian is an affirmative action employer.

Deadline: Applications must be received by January 20, 1978.
Contact: Ms. Barbara Moulter, Office of Personnel Administration, A&I 1471.

Description: The U.S. Department of Energy has announced the 1978-1979 Visiting Scholar program offering course development and research opportunities in the history of energy systems, policies, and technologies. Visiting Scholars will receive support for a period not to exceed two years to work on projects of their own design related to but independent from the DOE historical program. Visiting Scholar applicants may submit proposals for the development of courses in the history of energy or research projects in the history of energy.

Contact: Inquiries should be addressed to Dr. Richard G. Hewlett, Chief Historian, Historians Office (phone 301-353-5431).